Joe F. Reid, agriculture freshman of Cheraw, was named business manager. He succeeds E. E. Holley, animal husbandry junior of Aiken.

L. K. Baker, pre-med junior of Sumter, was named to succeed Grady Daniel, education senior of North Augusta, as associate editor.

Elected sports editor was Harold L. Owen, mechanical engineer sophomore of Greenville. He succeeds Charles O. Meiburg.

Stan Kohn, industrial education senior of Charleston, was named to succeed Louis L. Henry as news editor.

S. J. Grant, Jr., civil engineering junior of Darlington succeeds G. F. Gillespie, civil engineering junior of Montgomery, Ala., as circulation manager.

Named photographer was L. G. Trimmer, Jr., animal husbandry sophomore of Bedford, Pa., who succeeds H. M. Chaplin, agriculture senior of Neeses.

Several junior staff positions remain to be filled. These will be announced at a later date.

The retiring members of the staff will continue to serve in an advisory capacity for the remainder of the semester.

Staff To Hear
Noted Editor

Manuel J. Rogers, state editor of the Greenville News, will be the guest speaker at the annual TIGER banquet to be held in the Gold Room of the Clemson House on Saturday evening, May 5. Mr. Rogers is a native of Florida and came to South Carolina in 1926.

Board Of Visitors
Inspecting Campus

The 1951 Board of Visitors are now making a tour in all schools and departments at Clemson, as well as the water plant, library, hospital, and YMCA.

The visitors will also see a parade of the Clemson Corps of Cadets on Thursday, May 3.

The Board includes:

District 1
Bachman S. Smith, Sr., Charleston fertilizer executive; George S. Rogers, Charleston school superintendent; and L. W. Walker, Sr., Summerville business man.

District 2
Colonel J. F. Risher of Bamberg, headmaster of Carlisle Military Academy.

District 3
J. C. Self, Jr., Greenwood textile executive; W. N. Henderson, Ninety Six farmer.

District 4
Robert M. Erwin of Laurens, vice president Laurens Glass Works; J. P. Williamson, Greenville, president of Dixie Home Stores.

District 5
Harmon Howorth, Rock Hill, superintendent Celanese Corporation; Harold Booker, editor of the Camden Chronicle.

District 6
B. F. Williamson, Jr., of Darlington, farmer; E. B. Baskins, of Bishopville, farmer and soil conservation district supervisor.

Hold-over members from 1950
Don W. Richardson, Georgetown real-estate and insurance man, farmer, and member of General Assembly.

Charlie Spivak At Jr.-Sr.

By Stan Kohn

At 9 p. m. on Friday night, May 11 the Clemson College Field House will echo to the strains of Star Dreams, theme of Charlie Spivak and his Orchestra, Charlie Spivak, "The Man Who Plays the Sweetest Trumpet in the World", is bringing his 15 piece group to Clemson, spotlighted by his two vocalists, Pat Collins, beautiful songstress, and Tommy Lynn.

Mr. Spivak got his start in the music world in Paul Specht's band. He later joined Benny Pollack, the Dorsey Brothers, and Ray Noble. He has played with such musicians as Glenn Miller, Skeets Herfurt, and Bob Crosby.

Charlie's first big engagement with his band was at the Glen Island Casino. He has played at such places as Houston's Shamrock Hotel, the Paramount in New York, the Palladium in Hollywood, the Meadowbrook in Cedar Grove, as well as in the motion pictures, "Pin-Up Girl" and "Follow the Boys."

The Spivak orchestra comes to Clemson from many college and service camp engagements including a stop at the nearby University of Georgia and the Parris Island Marine Base.

On a former dance engagement here Charlie Spivak was named honorary lieutenant colonel in the Clemson Corps of Cadets. Charlie is as proud of this honor as any of the other honors bestowed upon him.

Pat Collins, feature girl vocalist, was born in Canada, but now claims Wilmington, Delaware as her home. She was a former member of the "Girlfriends", a vocal trio, and worked most of the smart supper clubs in the East. It was while playing one of these engagements that Pat was heard by maestro Spivak, who promptly signed her as his songbird.

Tommy Lynn, male vocal star, has been with Charlie Spivak for three years.

Mrs. Lindsay Named
Mother Of The Year

Mrs. J. G. Lindsay of Clemson has been named Clemson's Mother of the Year by Tiger Brotherhood, honorary leadership fraternity. She will be honored at the Mother's Day parade May 13.

1947 graduate, is connected with the Derring-Hilliken Company. James, the oldest son, will receive his degree in architecture in June. He got his degree in civil engineering in 1941.

All of the Lindsay boys are married except Jack.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay have lived at Clemson for 34 years, 30 of these years in their present home at 143 Forest Lane. Mr. Lindsay has been connected with the Clemson Mess Hall since coming here 35 years ago. The Lindsays have eight grandchildren.

An American Red Cross representative will be at the "Y" the week of May 21-25 to give the life saving instructors course. The course will consist of three hours a day for five days. Prerequisite for the course is a current senior life saving certificate. Anyone wishing to register for this course is asked to leave his name at the "Y" desk.

The second blood drive is being held on the campus May 3 and 4. Cadets are reminded to check the bulletin boards to see when they are to attend. Persons other than members of the cadet corps who desire to donate blood should contact the local Red Cross branch. The bloodmobile unit will again be located at the Methodist Church.

Kirk Craig Is Second
In Beau Arts Event

Kirk Craig, senior architecture major of Greenville, has been named second place winner and first alternate for the Lloyd Warren Scholarship sponsored by the Beaux Art Institute of Design in New York.

The first prize, which carries a scholarship of $5,000 for travel and study in Europe for one year and six months in the United States was won by William Stoutenburg of the University of Illinois. In case the first place winner finds it impossible to take leave of 18 months, Craig will be awarded the prize.

Mr. John Gates, head of the Clemson architectural department, termed the award to Kirk Craig "the greatest thing ever to happen to the Clemson architectural department."

Dr. R. F. Poole, president of Clemson College, said, "The achievement of Kirk Craig in making the finals and becoming the alternate to receive the $5,000 architectural award to study abroad, and in competition with students from many colleges and universities in America, brings to Clemson worthwhile recognition that makes us happy and proud. It attests the splendid work that is being done in our School of Architecture and the quality of its students."

There were 118 designs entered in the original judging. These were cut to 20 in the semi-finals and 12 in the finals. Clemson placed three men in the semi-finals, Kirk Craig, Harry Merritt, and Walter Keene. Merritt and Craig were in the finals.

The problem for the students was to design a bus station of a complicated nature. The men were given nine days to complete the work before the designs were sent to New York and judged by seven outstanding architects.

ASAE Elects New Officers At Meet

J. H. Gibson, agricultural engineering senior of Chester, was recently elected president of the student branch of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers.

Others elected are: E. D. Hastings, of Washington, D. C., vice-president; H. O. Vaigneur of Ridesland, secretary-treasurer; and L. H. Witt of Swansea, reporter. Professor J. B. Richardson was named faculty adviser.

Retiring officers of ASAE are: H. E. McLeod, president; W. T. Vick, vice president; R. M. Prince, secretary-treasurer; and W. A. Jones, reporter.

Columnist Pleads To Troops To Preserve Traditions; Good-Bye

By Grady Daniel

TRADITIONS

The other day I was digging through some old files of this newspaper, reading some of these columns that were written by my predecessors. One particular part of a column caught my eye and I'd like to mention it. It has to do with that age-old tradition here at Clemson called "rat" service.

The particular columnist I am speaking of had this to say about it. These may not be his exact words but they carry the same idea. He said that some day some powerful group or some powerful person would try to do away with that one tradition that makes Clemson part of what it really is. That one tradition that has been mentioned before is rat service. Why anyone would want to do away with a thing as old as that is hard to understand but nevertheless it has been tried as you yourself know. As far as we know it has not been successful and as long as there are students that believe in their school and love it, it won't be.

My plea is just as this columnist's plea before me. Stand on your rights. Preserve the traditions of Clemson. If anyone tries to infringe upon them, stand up and fight. Traditions are a part of every society the world over. Even the army has traditions as old as the army itself. That's one thing that makes the army what it is, just as it makes Clemson what it is. The tradition of rat service here is as old as the school itself. Your great-grandfather was a rat, your father was a rat, and you were a rat.

Demolish the traditions, folkways, and mores of a society and you undermine the society itself. You destroy the prestige if there is any at all. Certainly Clemson has prestige!

Rat service is not the only tradition I am referring to in this column. There are countless others that you know yourself. They are all characteristic of Clemson—"the unwritten laws". It has been said that Clemson trains some of the best officers that have entered military service. No doubt these very traditions have instilled into these men the initiative and self-confidence that has made them what they are. The same is true of rat service.

To be a successful leader one must have once been a successful follower. To give orders one must first be able to take them and carry them to the best of his ability. Rat service conditions a man. It teaches him to take orders—it teaches him discipline.

At this point it becomes necessary to mention that anything can be carried to an extreme. Rat service is no exception. This fact should always be kept in mind.

I must also say that I have no sympathy for senior night, especially the kind that took place here about a week or so ago. Truly, it is tradition, but I don't think that it was tradition before our time to try to destroy the property of the college. This is a destructive tradition. Traditions, folkways, and mores change. The college has tried to change this one for their benefit and ours, but seemingly to no avail. What they need is cooperation!

Now just a few more words and I'll be through for the year. Let these other things die and the spirit of the school will die with them. Their remaining alive is not left up to everyone as a whole but each individual. If the "unwritten laws" are broken they will eventually fade away. Modern society is governed by laws which if broken, punish the persons breaking them. I'm asking you to respect our unwritten laws and personally see that they are never broken. I'll admit it takes character but every Clemson man has character, I don't care who he may be. Remember school tradition depends upon you and me.

GOOD-BYE

I believe that apologies show a sign of weakness but nevertheless I'd like to offer a few. I realize that all my criticisms in this column have not been justifiable and for this reason I know that some people have been offended. A professor of mine once said "you can drive a nail into a post, you can pull the nail out, but you can't pull the hole out." I have not only driven nails, but I have hewn with an ax, and as time has elapsed the chips have flown. These chips cannot be replaced, but maybe the wounds can be soothed to some extent. I offer my most humble apologies.

Doc Baker, who will succeed me, will write this column hereafter. I sincerely believe that he is very capable and will probably do a better job than I have done in the past. There's really not too much that I can say about him for he has already made a name for himself while writing another column, "Now Hear This." No doubt he will swing that old "proverbial ax," too, but it'll be so sharp that maybe it won't cause quite as much offense as I have at times. He has all my confidence and I'm sure that he will have yours, too.

Possibly I haven't contributed as much to the Tiger, to this column, and to the school as I could have, but I've tried. And to you readers, personal friends, and everyone else may I express my deepest appreciation for your criticisms, ideas, etc., that have made this column materialize from week to week. I am greatly indebted to you. Now let me say GOOD-BYE AND GOOD LUCK!

NOW HEAR THIS

Senior 'Night' Product Of Youngsters Administration Is Part Of Blame

By "Doc" Baker

SENIOR NIGHT HISTORY

Apparently, everyone is settling down after the historic 1951 "Senior Night". I suppose the term should be Senior Day's Eve, but since the day never did arrive, night seems more appropriate.

What brought this about will probably never be known. Sociologists and psychologists probably dig around and come up with some sort of explanation that will be "battered up" to the point the average laymen will accept it for a reason.

My personal explanation contains two main points. First, the students here at Clemson are basically youngsters.

As such, they have no sense of responsibility. The cadets are made officers, but this does not make them mature. Their duties are performed with ease when it comes to giving five demerits for a dirty belt buckle, but when it comes to the point of restoring order, they are a little out of place.

The second point is a fault of the administration. This thing has happened before. Several members of the faculty knew something was in the air before the first vehicle ever rolled from its parking place. In view of the past, a definite action should have been taken. Surely, these men as leaders and educators should have realized that simply because college students are pampered with the idea they are men, they have little experience. The same thing happened in high schools. Students are told they are big children no longer in grammar school, but in certain cases strict measures have to be taken.

About the only practical solution would have been to have check-ups on the halls Tuesday night. Furthermore, it should have been known by all that these "look-sees" would have been held. Impress them with the idea that Senior Day started the following day and they would be required to perform a usual role until then.

The second point is almost self-explanatory. The first one is clearly indicated by one point. Had the students who participated in the thing possessed one grain of logic or "common sense," they would have waited until the field day prizes were awarded and the barbecue consumed before they started their rampage.

Now that it's all over, everyone was in bed while the incidents took place. No one participated! The next thing (?) taking place was the decision of the school authorities to cancel the remainder of the day. They fed barbecue dishes for three meals to the students in the Mess Hall. The married seniors and Day Cadets, who probably participated least of all, sat back while the majority of the rabble-rousers enjoyed their barbecue.—The innocent suffering for the guilty!—The guilty enjoying the spoils!

Usually, something is gained through mistakes. The only thing to be gained in this case lies with the present underclassmen. You have witnessed what disorganized, mob, action leads to. When your turn comes to have a class holiday, remember this and conduct yourselves as gentlemen. As a class you are entitled to the joys and festivities. As a member of an unruly throng, you only invite trouble for you and disappointment for your class mates.

To the administration, you have witnessed (again) what a lack of close communion between college officials, the faculty, and the students results in. In the future, wouldn't it be wiser to eliminate one hour of drill or a parade to have everyone assemble once every so often to form a smoother functioning organization?

Platter Chatter

By "T. K." VASSY

We had two of the column's best spies go to Athens this week to get some pertinent poop on Spivak. Well, the reports are in. From the available info, the troops are in for one of the greatest dances Clemson has ever seen. He has 15 pieces and two vocalists. The female vocalist is Pat Collins and she is strictly a queen. The male is Tommy Lynn and guess what! He doesn't sound like Eckstine — sounds more like Bill Farrell.

The sax section has some of the Flanagan sound, and they carry the beat a good part of the time. His lead alto man is terrific. Also has a great tenor man.

The trombones have very few rides, and are therefore not very outstanding. They furnish the accessory music on rumbas, etc. The main purpose of the bones is to furnish smooth backing, and they do it to perfection. Spivak himself plays lead trumpet, but has a very capable ride man. He nearly backs up the vocalist, much in the same manner that Harry James backs up Doris Day on the Young Man album.

The slow music comes in medley form, with fast numbers to break the sets, rather than the usual five minute set breaks. Spivak has a style all his own. He positively does not imitate or use anybody else's.

Spivak himself is loaded with personality. He has a great facility for remembering names, and once he learns a name, he always calls the person by his name. The only thing that worries him is "Does the music please the crowd?"

You should have heard Louis Armstrong on Crosby's program. "Ol' Satchmo" brought down the house with his rendition of Sunny Side of the Street. It took the M. C. almost four minutes to quiet the audience.

If it's possible, we heard a dance last Thursday that even has Spivak beat. It was Lionel Hampton and his crew. He flaked out a 20 piece outfit with two vocalists. The notables were Milt Buckner on piano (Milt's Boogie and Buck's Bop) and Lennie Maegro on guitar. Included in the outfit were 4 bones, 5 trumpets, 6 saxes, drums, git, piano bass, and Hamp on vibes. His greatest numbers were Midnight Sun, Flyin' Home, How High the Moon, Perdido, Hamp's Boogie and Four Brothers. His arrangements were really wild. Before the show, we went backstage and requested HOW High the Moon. When he got into it, he played no less than a dozen choruses. Every man in the band is a ride man, and every man handled at least one ride.

After the dance, we went backstage again and really had a chance to talk to him. He recognized the name of Clemson right off. He said "Oh, you guys are the ones who have such a helluva football team and marching band." He had heard the album cut by the band. Hamp has some very definite political views. He thinks our Jimmy Byrnes should be president. He says race relations have improved in the South over the last ten years. Hamp says he has a much easier time on his Southern tours than he did in the past.

We asked one of his sax men about Shearing. He gave a one word answer—"Terrific." He says Shearing has changed vibes twice since Marjorie Hyams left. One of them was Milt Jackson (52nd Street Hot Jazz album), but he doesn't know the present one.

He has a few words on Lou McGarity. On March 12 he cut four sides with Robert Siravo's ork. Roberta Quinlan (?) was on vocals and they were cut for Capitol. If you hear Any Old Time, Do You Dig John Peel, I'll be There With Bells On or Old Smokey by the above, listen for the trombones. To top it off, he slipped into the next studio and cut 4 MGM sides featuring Bonnie Lake with Russ Case's ork. Listen for Lou on Beautiful Madness. No One But You, Happy Ending, and On The Riviera.

Words From The Wise

A Fond Farewell

Once again, it is time for an old TIGER staff to fold its tents and steal away as a new staff takes over the responsibilities of publishing a weekly newspaper for Clemson students.

As we prepare to turn over the reins of office, we begin to wonder if we're as glad to leave as we often thought we'd be.

Spending thousand of man-hours (most of them wee hours) in collecting copy, pictures, and advertising for some thirty issues has not always been fun. With little or no respite from the weekly grind, and even less credit for our efforts, we were often discouraged, and only the consciousness of our responsibility kept us from giving up. But we tried, and, in some measure, at least, succeeded, in achieving our purpose.

That aim, as we saw it, was three-fold: to give students and alumni non-partisan reports of news and campus happenings; to reflect, through the editorial columns, student opinion on matters of common interest; and to work toward our common goal, a Greater Clemson.

THE TIGER has not been perfect; we can see that in perspective now, and we know better than anyone else the mistakes we have made. But as we look back over our accomplishments of the past year, we cannot help feeling a little pride in what we have done.

We did not, of course, do it alone. Professor John D. Lane, our faculty advisor and Professor Ben Goodale, circulation advisor, gave us advice, assistance, and moral support that were invaluable.

Dr. Poole and Miss Shanklin were generous of their valuable time to help us. Mr. Littlejohn and Mr. Hamilton Hill and their assistants spent much time and effort in keeping our finances straight. Mr. Metz, Mr. Henry Hill, McNeil Howard, John Califf, and dozens of others gave us much in the way of assistance and suggestions.

To all these, to the student body and campus people, to our readers everywhere, go our heartfelt thanks and enduring gratitude. We will always remember them and their kindness. And so we write "—30—" to this last editorial and to our college newspaper careers.

Letters To The Editor

From time to time, we have stated in print our policy regarding letters written to the feature column, "Letters to Tom Clemson", the TIGER'S equivalent of "Letters to the Editor", but our readers apparently haven't taken cognizance of our rules.

We have never published unsigned letters. We have stated repeatedly that we would not do so under any circumstances, since we cannot assume full responsibility for libelous or damaging statements by irresponsible persons. Yet we still get letters with no signatures.

The latest is a dilly. The writer used one and one-half typewritten pages to say that he thought the whole senior class should be committed to a mental institution, and signed it "A senior who did not participate in the hell-raising". Then he added a postscript: "If you don't publish this, you're chicken!"

We're not being chicken when we abide by the rules of the TIGER. We are retiring from the staff, and the new editors may decide on a new policy, perhaps withholding names on request, but we cannot now publish such letters.

Shown above are some of the students that received awards Wednesday morning at the annual Scholarship Recognition Day. Seated left to right, are: William F. Stewart, Jr., winner of the Danforth Fellowship for juniors; John H. James, recipient of the Augustus G. Shanklin award in Military Science; R. M. Rock Hill Students Give Program At P S A Meet

Students from Rock Hill who are members of the Presbyterian Student Association presented a program on Wednesday night, May 2, at the meeting of the P S A at the Fort Hill Presbyterian Church.

Bill Wylie of Rock Hill was in charge of this presentation.

M. R. Saigol Will Speak At Picnic

M. R. Saigol, Clemson student of Kohinor-Nagen, W. Punjab Pakistan, will speak to the Presbyterian Student Association at a picnic supper to be given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Holtzendorff on Wednesday evening, May 9, at 5 p. m.

Those students desiring to attend this picnic supper should leave their names at the Y office.

The Clemson House, ultra-modern 250-room hotel here, continues to draw an ever increasing number of conventions and conferences to the campus.

According to Fred L. Zink, Jr., manager of the hotel, a total of 11 conferences and conventions are scheduled for the spring and summer months.

Starting April 23 and lasting through May 4 the Bruce Payne and Associate School is meeting. From April 30 to May 4 will be the South Carolina Tuberculosis Association. The South Carolina Library Association has a meeting scheduled here May 4-5.

The Owens Corning Fiberglass Corporation will meet here May 14-16. The only convention to be held during the summer will be the Lions convention on June 3-5. Over 1,000 delegates are expected on the campus then.

Another conference in May, this one the South Carolina Electric Corporation foreman's conference, will be the 24th and 25th. The co-ordinators of the South Carolina Electric Corporation has a scheduled meet June 7-8.

The South Carolina Association of Veterinarians is meeting on the campus June 10-12. Farmer's Wee is slated August 14-21 and the Tobacco Research Conference is planned for October 9-11.

The Fred Waring Workshop to be held June 17-22, is expected to attract around 200 musicians, choral directors, and choir leaders during the week.

Mr. Zink said that other conferences would probably be scheduled later.

Block And Bridle Elects New Officers

Tuesday night, at a special meeting, the Block and Bridle club elected officers for 1951. The new officers are: R. B. Johnson, president; S. G. Woods, vice president; D. C. Mangrum, secretary; J. A. Roux, treasurer; Bill Schwier, marshal; R. R. Ritchie, professor of animal husbandry, was elected faculty advisor.

This year's officers are: Winston Sibley, president; F. M. Flowers, vice president; R. B. Johnson, secretary; L. S. Clark, treasurer; E. D. Risher, marshal. Professor J. R. Cook is the faculty advisor. The Block and Bridle club is composed of students who are majoring in animal husbandry.

All-Girl Cast To Give Shakespearian Play

Brenau College's speech and dramatic arts department will present Shakespeare's "Merry Wives of Windsor" May 3, in the College Chapel. The play, sponsored by the Clemson Little Theater, is open to the public, free of charge. The production is directed by Mrs. Maude Fiske LaFleur, head of the department.

The play consists of twenty-three characters, starring Joan Baker, Greenville, Ohio, as Falstaff; Faye Hines, Jacksonville, Florida, and Lou Price, Bridgeville, Pennsylvania, as the two wives. The group presented "The Merry Wives" Friday night in the Brenau College auditorium.

The play will be the final presentation of the current season by the Clemson Little Theater, according to James Beall, president. In addition to a set of one act plays in central staging, the group has produced "Bentley Square" and "Hay Fever," the latter also done in central staging, this year.

Bengals Cop Three Out Of Four On Road Trip

Furman, Duke; North Carolina Fall To Powerful Tiger Nine; State Deals First League Defeat

Clemson's Tigers proved last week to any who might doubt the past records that they were the number one team in the Southern Conference. The Bengals left Clemson Wednesday with an 8-0 league record and encountered four Conference foes—Furman, Duke, North Carolina, and N. C. State. The latter three teams were ranked just below Clemson in the standings, and many observers thought that the Tigers couldn't stand up against top-flight competition, since their record had been made against supposedly inferior South Carolina nines.

However, the Tigers crossed up the doubtful and took three out of the four games. Wednesday, Furman fell 10-8. Thursday, Duke, number two in the southern division, felt the fury of the Tiger, 4-3. North Carolina lost the next day by the same score, 4-3. Saturday, Clemson dropped their first game of the season to a conference team. N. C. State upset the Bengals 7-5.

The loss Saturday gave Clemson an 11-1 record in Southern Conference play, tops for both divisions.

FURMAN FALLS, 10-8

Clemson's power-laden baseball team continued to win as they rolled over the Furman Hornets by the score of 10-8. The game was played in Greenville on the Furman diamond Wednesday afternoon, April 25.

Clemson got off to a good start as they pushed across 3 runs in the first inning. Crouch led off with a double, Aughtry reached first when he was hit by a pitch, Knoebel singled scoring Crouch and advancing Aughtry to third.

Culberson then fled out to right. Knoebel stole second and was thrown out at home trying to score on Mathews' single which scored Aughtry. A moment later, Hendley singled but was left stranded as Morrow fanned to end the inning.

The Tigers next big inning came in the first of the sixth as Aughtry struck out to begin the inning. Knoebel drew a free pass and came home on Evans screaming double to left. Mathews fled to third. Hendley, the Tiger's hustling catcher, came through with a timely single which scored Evans from second. Morrow went to second on a shortstop's error which also advanced Hendley to third. Hendley and Morrow scored on Ray McKay's single. Baker went down swinging to end the inning.

The Bengals added 3 more tallies in the seventh on singles by Knoebel, Mathews and Hendley.

The Hornets also began their scoring early as Landreth opened the first by grounding out second to first. McDowell followed with a triple and came home on a wild pitch. Davis walked and advanced to second on Watson's single. Davis moved to third and Shook reached first on a fielder's choice which got Watson at second. Davis came home on a wild pitch. Stafford grounded out to end the inning.

Furman went ahead in the third frame when McDowell opened the inning reaching second on the second baseman's error. Davis singled scoring McDowell and was safe on second on a fielder's choice. Watson then singled moving Davis to third. Shook reached first on a fielder's choice which moved Watson to second. Shook was picked off first by the pitcher. Stafford singled, scoring Davis and Watson, but was thrown out going into second. Edwards grounded out second to first to end the inning.

Furman added two more runs in the fifth on a two base error and a single by McDowell.

The Hornets made another run in the eighth as Watson reached first on the shortstop's error. Shook fled to center. Stafford singled, moving Watson to second. Edwards reached second on a pitcher's error which scored Watson and moved Stafford to third. Bass struck out and Moates grounded out third to first to end the inning.

Mathews and Hendley led the Tigers offensively as they collected three singles in five official times at bat apiece. Knoebel hit safely twice in four tries.

McDowell was Furman's big man at the bat as he gathered a triple and two singles in five trips to the plate.

Baker, who relieved Hughes in the fifth with two on and no outs, was credited with the win. Moates came in the seventh to take over the pitching chores for Furman and was charged with the loss.

DUKE LOSES, 4-3

Clemson's "Hootie" Kea pitched masterful six hit ball as the Tigers edged the Duke University nine by the score of 4-3. "Hootie's" teammates backed him beautifully as they collected ten hits and played errorless ball.

Clemson scored in the first inning as Crouch opened the game with a single and was safe at second as Aughtry reached first on a fielder's choice. Crouch stole third and scored on Mathews fly to center.

The Bengals added two more in the fourth when successive singles by McKay and Kea drove in Hendley and Morrow who had reached base on fielder's choices.

They completed their scoring in the fifth as Aughtry singled and advanced to second on Knoebel's single. Mathews then drove Aughtry home with a single to left.

The Blue Devils pushed across their three runs in the fourth inning as Groat opened the frame with a single and advanced to second as Werber walked. Powers was hit by a pitch, moving Groat to third and Werber to second. Carroll then doubled scoring all three base runners, but was put out going into third.

McKay led the Tigers' hitting as he collected a double and a single in four times at bat. Mathews and Kea gathered two singles in four times at bat to also add to the Bengals plate power.

Carroll paced the hitting for the losers as he collected a double and a single in four official times at bat.

Kea was the winning pitcher as he issued three walks, struck out three and gave up but six hits to Duke batters.

Lewis was charged with the loss, his first of the season.

Annual B.S.U. Banquet And Art Exhibit Be Held Next Week-End

The Clemson B. S. U. will hold their annual banquet on Saturday night, May 12, at the Clemson Baptist Church. Reservations may be made by the purchase of tickets at $1.00 each. All B.S.U.'s are invited to bring dates and are urged to see Ben Wright about reservations.

Bill Wagner, associate pastor of the Citadel Square Baptist Church of Charleston, will be the speaker. In addition twelve girls from Winthrop will be present. Along with the annual banquet an art exhibit is to be sponsored by the B. S. U. It will take place on May 13 and 14 and will feature paintings done by professionals, Clemson College students, adults of the community, and also a children's exhibit, sponsored cooperatively by the B. S. U. and the A. A. U. W. of Clemson.

These paintings will be shown in the Educational Building of the Baptist Church beginning at 1:30 p. m. Sunday, May 13, and continuing until 6:30 p. m. that evening, and again on Monday, May 14, from 9:00 a. m. until 9:00 p. m.

The work of the Clemson students will be evaluated by a committee composed of Mrs. B. E. Fernow, Mrs. Charles McGee, Jr., and Mr. W. F. B. Hodge.

UNC DEFEATED, 4-3

Clemson exploded with three runs in the ninth inning to come from behind to beat the University of North Carolina 4-3 for their third win in as many days. The game was played on the UNC diamond at Chapel Hill, N. C.

The Tigers trailed by the score of 1-0 until the eighth inning when Roby Crouch opened the inning with a home run to tie up the ball game 1-1.

The Tar Heel lads fought back to add two more runs in the bottom of the eighth as pinch-hitter Paige led off the inning by striking out. Reeves drew a base on balls and then another pinch-hitter, Coats, slammed out a home run to send the University out in front by the score of 3-1.

The Bengals retaliated in the ninth when Culberson, pinch-hitting for Evans, walked. Hair went in the game to run for Culberson. Morrow reached first on a fielder's choice, advancing Hair to second. McKay came through with a timely single to score Hair and send Morrow to third. McKay taking second on the play for Morrow.

Hines, long ball hitter, then entered the game to hit for Ford. However, Coach Cox withdrew Hines in favor of "Bird Dog" Hughes. Hughes promptly laid down a perfect bunt to squeeze Morrow home with the tying run. Ray McKay came home with the winning marker when Crouch hit a grounder back to the pitcher.

Roger Baker came on to hold the North Carolina lads scoreless in the bottom of the ninth.

Bill Ford, pitching beautiful ball the eight innings he worked, received credit for the win.

Lore, replacing Schacht in the ninth inning was charged with the loss.

Aughtry led the hitting for Clemson as he gathered three singles in five official times at bat. Crouch and Mathews followed in the hitting. Crouch collected a homer and a single in five trips to the plate and Mathews hit safely twice in four tries.

Coats paced the losers at the plate with a home run in his only time at bat. Smith also added a triple for the Tar Heels.

STATE UPSETS, 7-5

Clemson's Tigers, who appear to be the class of Southern Conference baseball, dropped their first league game of the year last Saturday when N. C. State slipped by them 7-5 at Raleigh, N. C.

Both teams collected 12 hits each, but the Wolfpack's Horbelt was more effective in the clutch than were Clemson's three hurlers.

The loss set the Tiger's conference record at 11-1. Also, it was the thirteenth game that ended a twelve game win-streak which started against non-league Erskine's nine.

Playing without the services of Ken Culberson, captain, the Bengals began their fourth game in as many days on a tour through North Carolina and games with the leading teams in the southern division.

The local men grabbed an early lead as they tallied twice in the first inning off as many hits.

Crouch led off with a walk, went to second on the left fielder's error. The first sacker scampered home with ease as Knoebel rifled a triple. "Knobby" crossed the platter on Hendley's single.

First inning hopes were still alive as the Wolfpack shortstop bobbled Evan's hot bounder. Hendley advancing to third and Morrow to the keystone sack. Horbelt buckled down and whiffed Morrow to retire the side.

The home team got into the scrap in the bottom of the fourth inning with one run resulting from two safeties. Successive singles by Fuscoe and Morris plus a long fly to left field by Thompson produced the marker.

Clemson banded into the lead by a one-run margin in the half-dozen frame on one hit, a walk and a fly ball. McKay drew a pass to the initial sack, went to second on Griffith's flier, and came home on Crouch's single. The score at this point was three to two in favor of the Clemsonians.

N. C. State added one score in their half of the fifth on two hits and a miscue. Morris led off with a two-sacker, trucked to second on Evans' mistake and came home via Thompson's single.

The host team added three runs in the seventh canto which proved to be the margin of victory. Horbelt singled and went to second on McGillis' one-baser. Hughes took over on the mound and was greeted with a triple by Fuscoe.

Morris grounded out to the first baseman. Aughtry errored Cheek's slow roller to let Fuscoe score the third run. Thompson grounded out pitcher to first to retire the side.

The Wolfpack added a run for insurance in the eighth frame as a result of Bengal mess-ups. Martin waited for four balls from Baker, went to the keystone corner on Brinson's fielder's choice. Martin went to third and home as a result of successive flies to center field.

Clemson started a rally in the top of the last canto, but it fell short as Harbelt tightened down.

Knoebel singled, went to third on Mathews' single. "Hickey" Hendley polled a long fly into center field that looked like a sure round-tripper, but Fuscoe made a miraculous catch. Knoebel tagged up and came across the plate. Hair was safe at first as a result of a fielder's choice. Mathews scoring from third on the mix-up. McKay grounded out second to

John Davis, Furman catcher, is shown above as he scampers back to first as Clemson pitcher J. C. Hicks attempts to catch the Hornet napping. Clemson defeated the Hurricanes 6-1 last Monday.

Cindermen Meet Wildcats Here Sat.

Clemson's varsity track team will meet the Davidson Wildcats here Saturday afternoon on the local track. The locals have a record of one win and one loss. The Tigers beat Presbyterian and lost to Georgia.

The Wildcat squad, possibly one of the strongest aggregations the Tigers will face this year, are expected to bring a fast and experienced squad to Tiger-

The Davidson and Tiger freshmen are scheduled to meet here Saturday in a double meet with the two varsities.

The Bengal freshman have a victory over Anderson High and are charged with a loss to the strong University of Georgia frosh.

Tigers Close Home Slate; Face Wildcats, Deacons

By Harold Owen

Tigers Are Still On Top

Coach Walter Cox's hustling baseball crew are still running atop the Southern Conference in a much more secure position than when they started the long, hard grind of last week. This very fact probably comes as a surprise to a few skeptics who were doubtful of the Tigers' horsehide power. The Bengals came through the North Carolina journey remarkably well considering that they played the three toughest teams in the Tarheel state in consecutive days, dropping but one of the three, that one to N. C. State on the last day.

As things stand now, two, perhaps three victories, stand in the way of the Tigers capturing their second Conference crown in three years. The three conquests would have to come from the five remaining games, the two this weekend with Wake Forest and Davidson, two with South Carolina and on with Furman.

With the race starting on the gallop from third to home the Tigers as of last week's standings, are out front with a 12-1 record, Duke (7-3) is second, North Carolina (6-4) is third and North Carolina State (6-5) is fourth.

If the North Carolina squads break even with the games that they play each other during the remainder of the season, Clemson may be able to walk to the crown, but regardless of the other teams the Conference pennant should be flying over Tillman Hall by mid-May.

Hicks Promising Tiger Hurler

One of the brighter aspects of an otherwise rather dull affair with Furman on Monday was the masterful chunking of Bengal rookie J. C. Hicks. Hicks, who was credited with his second win of the season in that game, looked as though he might become the ace of the Tiger mound staff in next two years. Hicks effectively baffled the Furman sluggers with the fast ball and his tantalizing drop that at times made the Hornets look comical. The pitching staff is going to suffer a little next year because of graduation losses and Hicks may be the man to lead the Tigers into Conference contention next year.

Hughes And Baker Relief Aces

Ask most any coach what is the prime requirement for a winning ball club and he will most likely answer a good reliever. Few teams can boast of one such man, but the Tigers this year have come up with two firemen who can take over from a tired starter and do it well. The two are Roger Baker and "Birdog" Hughes. Baker came in during the fifth inning of the Furman contest in Greenville last Wednesday, stopped a Purple rally, and received credit for the victory. Both boys relieved in the State game and Baker could have possibly won the game had not a Tiger upsurge fallen short of the mark in the ninth frame.

Golfers To Go To State Meet

Clemson's golfers after ending the season with Georgia on Monday are planning to enter the state meet on May 15-18, confident that they will defend their championship successfully. The golfers have had their off and on moments, but the team is anchored by veterans Billy Delk, John Rees, and Bill Chapman who under pressure can play some of the best ball in the state. The linksmen ended the season with seven wins and the same number of losses.

The golfers may have found a future link pro in the boy that does almost everything well, namely Bill Hair. Bill, who seems to take up golf as a sideline to his other athletic commitments, shoots in the middle seventies and according to reports plays quite a steady game. Had Bill more time to devote to the game he shows possibilities of becoming another Ben Hogan.

Hope Change Not Too Bad

If you noticed the top of this column you may have seen a slight miss-spelling of the name of the old sportsman, Charles Meiburg. It's really not. When Charles moved upstairs the sports page fell into the laps of me and my cohort, Carroll Moore. We, too, will try to put our meager knowledge of the great outdoor games together and with a brave effort attempt to do as well as our predecessors, Charles and Doc, have done. We sincerely hope, and perhaps not in vain, that the coming sports pages may even be an improvement over this year's edition.

Furman Drops Third To Tigers, 6-1

Clemson's J. C. Hicks stifled the Furman baseball team with eight hit pitching as his teammates managed to push across six runs to beat the Purples, 6 to 1 and capture their 12th Conference win.

The Tigers could get only eight hits on Furman hurler Cy Brown, but timely hitting and Brown's lack of control were the deciding factors in the game.

Big Dick Hendley lead the Tigers at the plate with a single and a double, driving in three runs and scoring one himself. Ray Mathews also collected two safeties for the Tigers. For Furman the only man to gather more than one bingle was Furman catcher John Davis.

The Bengals put the game away with three runs in the eighth inning to break up a close 2-1 duel. Cowboy Aughtry flied to left to open the frame. Knoebel walked, and went to third on Mathew's bingle. Both men scored on Hendley's long double into left-center. Hendley then charged home on a passed ball.

In the third frame the Tigers scored the first run of the contest. After Culberson had lofted out, Morrow singled, went to second on the third baseman's miscue, stole third, and scored Hicks' hit.

Furman tied it up in their half of the fourth. Brown punched out a single, advanced to second on a walk given to Landreth, and came home on Shook's single through the box.

In the bottom of the fourth the Tigers went ahead for good as Aughtry walked, stole second, and scored on Mathew's single. The Tigers' final run came in the eighth when Hicks walked, was moved to second by Crouch, and crossed home plate as Bass booted Knoebel's roller.

Intramural Playoff Now In Progress

Intramural softball has ended the official season, but the playoffs for the "Little World Series" and the "World Series" are just beginning. The "Little World Series" will be composed of the winner in each of the four leagues. A two out of three series between the winner of league I and league II will determine who will play the winner of the series between league III and IV for the "World Series" and championship.

The league winners are as follows: League I, Barracks 8 or the Military Department; League II, Block C club; League III, Faculty; League IV, Company B-3.

If you would like to see some good fast softball come on out and give support to your favorite team.

Notice to Intramural tennis players: The draw sheet is posted on the YMCA porch. Find out who you are supposed to play and get in contact with him before your match is scheduled.

Let's try to look at life with a little humor; a lot of pity, a ceaseless curiosity, a love of beauty and work, and a sense of comradeship with all with whom we come in contact . . .

Kea, Ford Likely Starters As Bengals Try For Loop Crown

Clemson's front running Tigers will take on the Wake Forest Deacons and the Davidson Wildcats in consecutive days this weekend in two important games that could determine the Tigers' final standing in the Southern Conference.

A victory for the Tigers in both games would virtually sew up the conference championship, but if the Coxmen should lose both contests, it would put the pressure on the Tigers for the remaining games.

The Bengals defeated the Wildcats in the early part of the season, 12-5, at Davidson, but have yet to meet the Deacs. Neither team is among the strongest in the conference and both are residing in the second division.

Bill Ford and "Hootie" Kea will probably start one game each for the Tigers, since neither has worked in a week. Both hurlers pitched great ball in games last week with Kea stopping Duke on six hits and Ford twirling a four hitter against North Carolina.

The rest of the lineup will probably remain the same. Roby Crouch will continue to play first, Cowboy Aughtry will hold down the keystone sack, Ken Culberson will be at short and Ray McKay will be at third.

In the outfield "Knobby" Knoebel will be in left. Ray Mathews will patrol center and either Billy Hair or Bill Morrow will be in right.

Ray Mathews is currently in one of the most phenomenal hitting streaks of the year. In the last five games Ray has blasted out 11 hits in 23 trips to the plate which is just shy of the .500 mark.

Clemson Netmen Defeat Furman 8-1 Carolina Golfers Down Tigers

Clemson's tennis team hit the winning trail after losing to the University of Georgia last Saturday by handing Furman an 8 to 1 loss in a match played here last Monday.

After losing a love set to Furman's number one man Roberts, Clair Draper came back to take the next two sets to win in the feature match.

Results of the Furman match: Draper (C) defeated Roberts 6-0, 6-1, 6-2. Smith (C) defeated Ransbottom, 6-0, 6-0. Trapp (C) defeated Eskeridge, 5-7, 6-2, 6-3. Asnip (C) defeated Rogers 6-0, 6-4. Coleman (C) defeated King 6-2, 6-1. Seaborn (C) defeated Howell, 6-2, 6-2.

Doubles: Roberts and King (F) defeated Merritt and Draper, 10-8, 6-2. Coleman and Stokes (C) defeated Ransbottom and Rogers, 6-3, 6-0. Trapp and Cookson (C) defeated Eskeridge and Howell, 6-4, 1-6, 9-7.

Finding the going a little tough, the Clemson College golf team lost to the University of South Carolina linkmen, 21 1-2 to 5 1-2, in Columbia last Saturday. Billy Delk tied Carolina's Dial for medalist honors with a one under par 71.

Summary:
Delk (CL) tied Dial, 1 1-2 to 1 1-2.

Taps Recieved; Unusual Experiences Are Told

By Grady Daniel

In August of 1950 a new Taps staff began the tedious job of compiling photographs, write-ups, and advertisements for a new Taps—the one that is now in our possession—the '51 Taps. Four men took up key positions, that would entail many hours of sweat, labor, and sleepless nights; a project that was even to cut into their school holidays. Bill Gaillard took over the man-sized job of editor, Jim Key, associate editor, Tony Bowman, business manager, and the man that pushed the pencil and made with the color, the designer, Bill Rabon.

According to Jack Hare, Classes Editor, there were at least four staff members working every week-end that rolled around. Some of the staff even sacrificed portions of their State Fair, Thanksgiving, and Christmas holidays to bring forth this unique book.

The deadlines were met by sections, the first one containing about the first 170 pages. To really appreciate this book one should interview any member of the staff so as to get some idea of how much work was put into it and all the amusing and troublesome incidents that had their part in its making. A few of the same will be set forth in this article, but by far means, only a few.

The photography in the book in many places is very unusual and different from that portrayed in any of the previous publications. The credit for this work goes to the staff photographers, Jack Trimmer and Henry Chaplin. I was told that some of the pictures were made anywhere from 11:30 at night to about 3:30 in the morning, in order to meet some of the trying deadlines.

Now let's have a look at the cover, which is very unusual, colorful, and highly symbolic. Here it is the symbolism as explained to your reporter by Designer Bill Rabon. First of all is the main building and the clock tower which naturally symbolizes Clemson, and the outline of the state of South Carolina, which shows that Clemson is a college of the state. But the hidden symbolism which most people won't catch lies on the face of the clock itself—the hands point to 11:00 o'clock—the hour for taps.

However, there was some hardship in connection with the making of this cover. It seems that a special kind of cloth that was originally settled on for this purpose could not be procured. Because of this difficulty that confronted them Bill Gaillard and Bill Rabon were forced to make a last minute trip to Kingsport, Tennessee, to select another material for the cover. This may seem insignificant, but nevertheless it was part of the work that made possible your '51 Taps.

After the first section was sent to Columbia, an error was discovered in the printing of the opening section, a simple one but anyway it mattered. Down in the bottom right hand corner of the very second page of the book you will find the word "present." This word came out on the proofs in the plural so word was sent to Columbia to do the whole page over. Why? Because the word was supposed to have been in the singular and it came out in the first time as "presents."

In one of the informal shots in the book one man even volunteered to get himself "pooled" so that he boys might complete a section in time to meet the deadline.

Now, speaking of tricks in photography, on page 265 you will find a picture of the co-captains of the football team. The amazing thing about this picture was that Jackie Calvert wasn't present when it was made, although in the make-up space was left for him. Instead the picture was taken in the barracks on his company hall, cut out, and pasted on the first picture together with the rest of the co-captains, and in the annual you have them all present.

These are only a few incidents that are behind the '51 Taps. There are many others, humorous, shocking, surprising, etc. Just ask some of the editors.

Is closing, if you will turn to page 392 of the book you will see a short printed column entitled "Passing In Review." These words are contained under the column: "At last the work is over, and the staff can sit back and admire, or bemoan, the results of their labors." So far as we're concerned "the staff can always admire the results of their labors."

W. H. D. Gaillard, the editor, says: "We have tried to gather together in a pictorial form a record for the students, especially the seniors, of all the activities of the 1950-'51 school year. The staff hopes that in this volume we are succeeding in doing just that. In particular we have tried to give recognition to those students who have in some way rendered outstanding services to their classmates. Much of the credit in making the book possible goes to Mr. Hamilton Hill of the business manager's office, Mr. John Califf, faculty adviser, and the Military Department, without whose cooperation we could never have finished."

We feel that this Taps staff may be highly justified in sitting back and admiring its work. We know that they are proud of it. We're proud of their labors and the book. The school is proud too. In our estimation this book has the making of an "All-American."

It is in every way different from all the books of the past. It portrays in iron-like vividness this whole school year. It's colorful, unique, and most of all still different.

There are many unusual features about this Taps that are sadly lacking in the ones that preceded it. First of all it is complete, even to a student directory. Secondly, in the advertisement section, informal shots are dispersed here and there to break the monotony of advertisement. And lastly, probably the most important page of the whole book, the ending. We must say that it is probably one of the most effective endings that can be found in any yearbook—even the best. We sincerely believe that ours is the best, too. The ending is filled with emotion and is entirely as
